

How do the NANOS annual meeting talks and presenters get selected?

The scientific program committee is chaired by the NANOS president elect and is responsible for organizing

- Scientific symposia (there are 6 in 2026): Topics, directors and speakers are selected based on feedback collected from prior annual meetings
- Member initiated symposia (there are 4 in 2026): Selected from submissions for entire symposia (topics, directors, speakers) by members (call for submissions happens in late Spring/early Summer)
