

Fight for Sight-NANOS Research Award Application Instructions

This award is made by Fight for Sight and the North American Neuro-Ophthalmology Society to support a promising clinician-scientist interested in neuro-ophthalmology research

REQUIREMENTS:

- Applicants must be a current US or Canadian resident or fellow in either ophthalmology or neurology.
- The mentor must be a member of NANOS.
- The award will include a $3,000 research stipend from FFS, accompanied by a $1,500 travel grant from NANOS, for the grant recipient to present a research paper based on the funded work at NANOS annual meeting.
- Adequate time and resources must be made available by the institution for the awardee to complete the project.
- The project described must be one that can be successfully completed within 6-9 months. The project must be original research, although it may be in an area where the mentor and/or other faculty have active support.
- The award may be used to offset salaries or to cover equipment and supplies.
- Applications must be submitted OCTOBER 15, 2016, MIDNIGHT EASTERN TIME.
- Applications are scored based on three criteria: the likelihood that the applicant will pursue a career as a clinician-scientist in neuro-ophthalmology; the strength and resources of the institutional environment and mentor; and the scientific merit of the project. Selection is made by the FFS Scientific Review Committee (SRC) and NANOS advisory members.
- Interested candidates for this award should apply at <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/ffs2016> by selecting the FFS-NANOS Proposal Form, and following the on-line instructions, making sure to upload all relevant documents.
